

Project Lead (or, your dream title!)

Are you passionate about improving the health of communities across Canada? Do you want to work on issues like vaccine confidence, cancer screening, access to care, and chronic disease prevention?

If you're excited by bringing people together—communities, partners, and experts—and you have a talent for managing projects, conducting research, and building strong relationships, we'd love to meet you!

This role is perfect for someone with curiosity, creativity, and a deep understanding of the healthcare system, who's ready to make a meaningful impact on the health of Canadians.

Who we are

Praxus Health (formerly 19 To Zero) is a healthcare not-for-profit that collaborates with a diverse range of partners to drive meaningful change and improve the health of communities.

Our work includes:

- Actionable Insights: We conduct research to understand public perceptions and the current landscape across various health topics.
- Advocacy: We advocate for equitable policies at all levels of the system that will improve the health outcomes for priority communities.
- Community Partnerships: We collaborate closely with community groups and organizations to ensure our work reflects the needs and priorities of the people we serve.
- Education & Practice Change: We partner with healthcare providers and system leaders to co-create innovative tools, resources, and initiatives that elevate healthcare quality and promote effective care delivery.
- Health Communications: We design, develop, and execute targeted and tailored educational and marketing campaigns to drive healthy behaviours.
- Models of Care: We develop, implement, and evaluate new models of care that improve patient experiences and health outcomes.

What you'll be doing

You'll work closely with our project team, community partners, researchers, and health system leaders to bring projects to life. Some of the work you'll be doing includes:

Project Management

- Lead multi-partner projects from planning through delivery
- Develop timelines, budgets, contracts, and work plans
- Keep projects moving — coordinating people, tracking progress, and removing roadblocks
- Identify new opportunities and emerging needs within the health system

Community Engagement & Partnerships

- Build strong relationships with communities, partners, and subject matter experts
- Co-design and implement community-driven initiatives that respond directly to community needs
- Facilitate collaboration across partners — from funders to frontline organizations

Research & Insights

- Design and conduct mixed-methods research (qualitative + quantitative) to generate actionable insights
- Support program evaluations and translate findings into clear recommendations
- Contribute to proposals, design briefs, and other materials that help shape future initiatives

What we're looking for

- ~5+ years of experience in project management, applied research, community engagement, or related fields — preferably in health care or a related field
- Experience collaborating with priority communities to co-design, lead, and deliver community-driven initiatives is an asset
- Strong mixed-methods research skills — you know how to gather, analyze, and synthesize qualitative and quantitative data
- Experience with project evaluation and methods (an asset, but not required)

- Solid project management skills — you've planned, organized, and delivered complex, multi-partner projects
- Experience developing proposals, project plans, budgets, contracts, and communications materials
- A relationship-builder who can work effectively with funders, partners, and diverse stakeholders

Why you'll love working with us

- A flexible, remote role you can shape around your life
- Flexible vacation and time off work culture
- A chance to flex your creative muscles on meaningful, mission-driven projects
- A supportive team that values bold ideas and making a real impact
- Opportunities to grow your skills in health communications
- A work culture that blends purpose, collaboration, and fun!

Location and salary

This is a remote, contract position for approximately 35 hours per week. The role is primarily virtual, with occasional in-person meetings or partner engagements (less than 10%). Compensation is based on experience and outlined in an independent contractor agreement.

How to apply

If this sounds like your kind of role, we'd love to hear from you. Please send your CV and cover letter to careers@praxushealth.ca with the subject line: "Project Lead Application."

Application Deadline: December 10, 2025
